

It Takes Expertise, Insight and Innovation

That, and a healthy dose of confidence in a team that knows how to get things done.

Our Story

We are a trusted technology development and support partner to hedge funds, family offices and institutional asset managers, from small to large and everything in between.

Since 2004, our engineers have worked side by side with our clients to develop custom portfolio management systems. Over the years, we built solutions to support all aspects of fund operations across the full spectrum of asset classes and a wide range of investment strategies. Each client brought a fresh challenge and a new style of fund management, calling for a custom portfolio management solution.

It got us thinking about what a single, agile, cost-effective portfolio management solution would look like.

Our Challenge

Develop a solid technology core that can support a complex, global business operation, while at the same time be flexible and modular enough to keep up with our clients' constantly evolving world view. Equally important, the solution must enable real-time implementation of new strategies and improved processes — a single platform, to support different styles of fund management.

Our mission became our passion, and Ruby Portfolio Management™ is the result

Ruby, our cloud-native portfolio management platform is based on the insight and expertise we gleaned from 15 plus years of developing technology solutions to serve fund managers' demanding requirements. That, and a healthy dose of confidence in a team that knows how to get things done.

Community Engagement and Other Interests

Our team is a diverse and dynamic group of engineers, designers and business analysts. From time to time, in addition to our day jobs, we take on projects to help causes we believe in.

This spring we learned about Stamford Symphony Orchestra's effort to bring millennials into concert halls! We loved the idea and, as any good neighbor would do, we joined in the effort and created Stamford Symphony's new website. Visit www.StamfordSymphony.org to check out their great program—Enjoy!
